RINGLING BROTHERS MAY BUY
MADISON SQUARE GARDEN FOR NEW YORK HOME FOR CIRCUS

It is Offered to Them for $3,250,000 and They Want it for Practical and Sentimental Reasons.

How an Old Rag Carpet Stretched in Mother's Back Yard Promises to Grow into the Greatest Circus Pavilion in the World.

New York, April 5.—Overtures are being made to the Ringling Brothers to purchase Madison Square Garden. Should the deal be consummated the greatest and most famous sporting arena in this country will be preserved to New York.

Although matters have not progressed beyond a tentative stage, they were discussed last night with enthusiasm by a few captains of the real estate market, who shared in the secret.

The price asked is $3,250,000. This is $250,000 less than the amount at which it was offered to the city in 1907. The site was suggested for the proposed new court house. There has never been a time since the Garden was opened on June 16, 1890, that the stockholders have received a dividend on their investment.

Alfred T. Ringling said: "It would be premature to discuss the matter at this time. We have not purchased Madison Square Garden, nor has any definite decision been reached. It is true that overtures have been made, but they have not come from the stockholders. I must decline to affirm or deny the reports heard in social circles further than to state that no contract has been entered into."

The plans for alterations include building three or more stories on the Madison avenue frontage, which would be devoted to business purposes. Another suggestion is to provide for a big auditorium by combining the boat which he has been building the past winter. It is thought the Mosie Along and the Golden Bawn, two popular boats, if they are not overloaded, will soon take the water.

Creator's band was like the Pied Piper—it drew quite a number of music lovers over to the city to hear the concert which it gave.

It was announced long ago that Mr. William Craton desired to purchase the old Benjamin house on Main street, which has for so many years been run as a summer boarding house. It is now announced that the place has been purchased from the McEwen estate. It is hinted that many improvements will be made. Possibly the building may be moved back from the sidewalk in line with the Bunnell and the Coe residences. This would add much to the attractiveness of the street.

Miss Sallie Wells is entertaining Miss Helen Whitmore of Saratoga, N. Y. The third degree was recently conferred by the Cronquist lodge. The gentlemen who took it are doing as well as could be expected.

Gardening has already begun. Mr. J. Henry Blakeman, the famous grower of onion seeds, is setting out something like 100 bushels of onions for next fall's crop of seeds.

There is some curiosity in town regarding the new Methodist minister will be. Hardly any one expects to see Rev. Royal W. Raymond return, as it is understood that he has a flourishing congregation in Seattle.

Plumbers and carpenters are interested in the rumor that Mr. William Stagg will soon build a new house near the junction of Broadbridge road and California street. This section of the town is fast becoming the aristocratic residential district.

Rev. Mr. Robertson preached yesterday at the Bethany Mission.

Robert Lewis went to Washington with his brother Frederick.

In time, as the season advances, trolley cars will run to New Haven every half hour.

Ten gentlemen have recently applied for membership in the local Order of Elks.

The food and fancy sale at the chapel of the Congregational church will take place next Thursday afternoon.

A number of Stratford folks went over to Bridgeport on Thursday to meet Mrs. Frank Hopson, who came from Danbury to do some shopping.

There is a wild rumor that "peepers" have appeared in town. If our sheriff says that, they are going well and good with them.

There have recently been several applications for membership in the Cupola Club.

The Cut Spring District of this town is to be stocked with Hungarian Partridges, all of which goes well and Game Warden Smith can keep pot hunters from shooting them.

The choir of St. James' is making preparations for the forthcoming Easter music.

A gentleman in town has gone into the dress sample business, at factory prices. He will call on ladies at their houses.
